PITTMAN AS AN APOLOGIST

KEY PITTMAN fits into the administration program as an apologist for the crimes of his master in the White House and it is presumed, there was no wrenching of conscience when the senator from Nevada was called upon to back up the president in his foreign policies. Pittman owes everything he has politically to President Wilson and it would be singular if he would not assist in his modest way in creating a favorable impression about the treaty. It makes little difference to him whether the treaty is reasonable or applicable to American constitution so long as the administration wants his backing. Preparation of this labored speech may be responsible for the fact that Senator Pittman has not seen fit to reply to the invitation extended by his Nevada electors to the president of the United States. To the man back here in the sagebrush it would seem that the first duty of Pittman would be to attend to the business of his constituents and let Shantung, Fiume and Petrograd wait awhile longer. It is more important to the people of Nevada that the senator pay more attention to our domestic affairs and less to foreign politics. There is ample work of this kind for a statesman to keep his mind fresh and alert, but, the Bonanza presumes that the yellow man from Japan is a more important figure than the hasty miner or the brawny rancher from the Silver State. There has not been any official reply from the senator regarding the itinerary of the president from coast to coast and the whippers of Nevada are left up in the air as to the intentions of Mr. Wilson. We are told that the party will be at Salt Lake, Los Angeles, San Diego and San Francisco. Now, to reach the coast by any line of travel it is necessary to negotiate the distance across Nevada which is some three hundred miles. Apparently this section of the journey will be made in a one-night jump so that the people will not be favored with a glimpse of any member of the presidential party. Whether the special train will roll down through Lincoln and Clark counties in order to reach the coast will go straight across the Sierras via Sacramento are hidden in the bosoms of the confidential advisers of the president of whom we are told Pittman is first and foremost. Instead of blathering away on the treaty which, of itself, is repugnant to almost every Nevadan, it would have been more considerate for the senator to have taken his pen in hand and tossed off a brief note to the chairman of the Nevada Democratic State Central Committee informing the whys and wherefores of the presidential trip through Nevada.

TIME TO KEEP COOL

HEAT IS RATHER a matter of imagination, a figment of surroundings and temperament. The man who lives in the tropics gets used to a temperature that would prostrate a resident of the temperate zone and the Eskimo would die where one of the temperate zone would find himself comfortable. The human animal can get used to anything and it is merely a matter of transition and custom to be tolerably happy wherever we may find ourselves planted. It is true that inhabitants of the northern latitudes can do more work and are possessed of greater energy than his cousins under the equator but it is all a matter of habit. In this locality the people are favored with an ideal climate for the greater portion of the year and therefore are prone to complain about heat waves that would not cause a Southern to shake his blankets. The average temperature of Tonopah is as nearly perfect as may be found in any part of the United States and a thousand per cent better than what is imposed on other sections of the country where millions of men, women and children are born and reared without suffering any discomfort. Take the Imperial Valley, for instance. The people of that submarine zone thrive on a summer temperature that rarely falls below the 100 mark while in the open, where enormous crops are harvested, the thermometer registers anywhere from 110 to 125 without discomforting anyone or interfering with the endless succession of foodstuffs. Should a man from this altitude be suddenly transferred to the sub-sea level he would expire from exhaustion. Down in that country they build their houses over the sidewalks to help cool the floors of the upper stories and no one thinks of building a home without providing for a double roof under which the breezes circulate and the sun's direct rays are robbed of their terrors. One day of the normal Imperial Valley temperature would convince a Tonopahan that a large section of hell had been sidetracked in his back yard for the torridity, to a stranger not acclimated, would surpass anything supposed to exist on this sub-lunary sphere. Nevertheless sunstrokes are rare and the atmosphere is not as enervating as imagination pictures. Hogs thrive in spite of their accumulation of fat and drought is unknown so that crops grow all season round. The people have got used to it. Nature has kindly thinned out their blood so they do not suffer any of the torments experienced by the rich red blooded people of the higher altitudes, whose systems are attuned to a more rigorous climate.

With reasonable care there is no cause for any one to suffer here, where the heated term lasts but a brief two months, and the nights are qualified with ozone that flows in from the surrounding hills and mountains with as much regularity as the flow and ebb of the tides. Tonopah is blessed with cool nights and mornings, where the air tingles with the bite of energy and the whole population awakes refreshed and eager for another day's battle with the business in hand. That is where the desert dweller has the advantage over his brother of the lower valleys where the calorific is never dissipated and bed time comes as a matter to be abhorred. The psychology of the case is that if you think of heat you will be hot whereas, if you are in a proper frame of mind you will appreciate the fact that elsewhere in this broad country hundreds are dying from heat prostration that is never felt in the invigorating atmosphere that puts pep into our daily existence. What is a temperature of 92 with a low humidity when elsewhere such a temperature would be regarded as the best boon from Heaven. Instead of taking the joy out of life by envying the polarbear in his icy environment, remember that you also have your pleasure and that life, as experienced on the desert, is not half as bad as others paint it. This is the life which can only be appreciated by those who seek to escape and find themselves exchanging the frying pan for the fire.

EXECUTIVE TARIFF MAKING

THE PROGRESS we are making toward the establishment of an autocracy in the guise of a republic is indicated anew by the serious proposal of a member of President Wilson's tariff commission that the fixing of tariff schedules be left in the hands of the president. Ostensibly this scheme is to meet the evil of dumping; the president is to be permitted to increase the tariff rates on any article the price of which he assumes is going to be unduly depressed by dumping, or he may prohibit such importations entirely. It would be difficult to devise a scheme more contributive to industrial instability, for under such a system values could be disturbed by more executive edict from day to day, and except in the cases of speculators who might profit by one of those celebrated "leaks," no one would be able to look more than twenty-four hours into the future of merchandising. That such a scheme should be proposed by an administration appointee is a significant sign of the times to those who desire to preserve in this country a real representative republic.

The Bolsheviks were the first to sign a peace treaty and the last to get peace. If anybody should ever concentrate on them and whip them, we favor that instead of imposing an indemnity, a universal bath, shave and haircut should be proclaimed in Russia.

British manufacturers of steel products are studying American methods of production with a view to the adoption of similar methods for their own manufacture, according to a report from Toronto. And until British manufacturers and operatives adopt a wage scale similar to that prevalent in the United States, Great Britain will be a competitor of ours to a limit set only by the protective tariff policy which we may adopt.

And now it would appear that Secretary Baker is fearful that he will bring down another avalanche of criticism so he regrettably refuses to appeal to President Wilson for the release of all conscientious objectors after having been asked to take such action by an amnesty committee of Chicago. 1920 grows closer each day and it may be he has seen the folly of his pacifist tendency. However it is too late to make amends for such affairs as the Leavenworth episode when many of these spineless youths were released with full pay for the time they spent secure behind prison bars.

WILL SALVAGE DREDGE FOR DAYTON PLACERS

Manual King of Dayton, who spent yesterday in this city states that preparatory work on the dredging plant at that point is under way. The people in charge will salvage considerable of the dredge that was started by the Raey interests some years ago. As the hull of the dredge was of good material this is being taken apart and will be used, as will some of the screens and other machinery.

He stated that a crew was expected in Dayton shortly who would commence real work on the first unit of the dredging operations, as he had a telegram in hand to meet several of the parties and secure accommodations for others.

When the big dredge gets into operation on the Dayton flat a lot of earth is destined to be turned over each day, as there is no child's play in one of the big concerns. The dredge will be along the line of those operating along the Sacramento river and other California points.—Carson News

Did the Chinese sign the peace treaty? Nobody seems to know. They might have used the familiar tea-chest hieroglyphics and no one would be any wiser.

LIFE AT SEASHORE WITHIN REACH

By Associated Press.
LONDON, July 1.—Americans who find the cost of vacations so high that they cannot afford this year to go to the mountains or seashore will be interested in the way in which the Y. M. C. A. is attempting to solve the problem in England.

Seaside profiteers have made the vacations so expensive for the average English family that thousands who before the war sought recreation on the east coast of England were unable to do so this year. The hotels have jumped their prices to unheard of figures.

The Y. M. C. A. is offering these families bed and breakfast in the seacoast resorts at $4.20 a week for each person and it proposes to furnish nurses and accommodations for
